Physical Plant

Number of buildings:

Auditor should count all buildings that are part of the facility, whether clients are formally allowed to enter them or not. In situations where temporary structures have been erected (e.g., tents) the auditor should use their discretion to determine whether to include the structure in the overall count of buildings. As a general rule, if a temporary structure is regularly or routinely used to hold or house clients, or if the temporary structure is used to house or support operational functions for more than a short period of time (e.g., an emergency situation), it should be included in the overall count of buildings.

Number of Client housing units:

Enter 0 if the facility does not have discrete housing units. DOJ PREA Working Group FAQ on the definition of a housing unit: How is a "housing unit" defined for the purposes of the PREA Standards? The question has been raised in particular as it relates to facilities that have adjacent or interconnected units. The most common concept of a housing unit is architectural. The generally agreed-upon definition is a space that is enclosed by physical barriers accessed through one or more doors of various types, including commercial-grade swing doors, steel sliding doors, interlocking sally port doors, etc. In addition to the primary entrance and exit, additional doors are often included to meet life safety codes. The unit contains sleeping space, sanitary facilities (including toilets, lavatories, and showers), and a dayroom or leisure space in differing configurations. Many facilities are designed with modules or pods clustered around a control room. This multiple-pod design provides the facility with certain staff efficiencies and economies of scale. At the same time, the design affords the flexibility to separately house clients of differing security levels, or who are grouped by some other operational or service scheme. Generally, the control room is enclosed by security glass, and in some cases, this allows clients to see into neighboring pods. However, observation from one unit to another is usually limited by angled site lines. In some cases, the facility has prevented this entirely by installing one-way glass. Both the architectural design and functional use of these multiple pods indicate that they are managed as distinct housing units.

Audit Findings

Audit Narrative

The onsite PREA audit of the Genesis Recovery Kentucky Center in Grayson, Kentucky was conducted August 23-24, 2021, by Department of Justice Certified PREA Auditor Brian D. Bivens. Grayson is in the northeast corner of the state and is located in Carter County; according to the 2010 census, the population was 4,217. Kentucky Christian University is located in Grayson. The town was named after President George Washington’s aide-de-camp from the Revolutionary War, Col. William Grayson.

Pre-audit preparation included a thorough review of all policies, procedures, training curriculums, Pre-Audit Questionnaire, and supporting documentation provided by the facility to demonstrate compliance to the PREA standards. The auditor and the facility’s PREA Coordinator had ongoing communication for several weeks prior to the audit to prepare for the on-site visit.

The on-site audit began with an entrance meeting being conducted on Monday, August 23, 2021 at approximately 09:00 A.M. in the Administrative Conference Room. The following staff attended the entrance meeting:

Chris Branham, Facility Director
Robyn Baldwin, PREA Coordinator

Following the entrance meeting, the auditor conducted a comprehensive site review that began at approximately 09:50 and continued throughout the onsite visit. During the site review the auditor reviewed camera placement, blind spots, staff placement and documentation to assist in determining standard compliance. While touring the facilities the auditor observed the notices of this PREA audit on all floors of the building, as well as posters (Kentucky Department Of Corrections Zero Tolerance and NO Means NO posters) that called attention to the agency’s Zero Tolerance Policy, Advocacy Services available, and how to report allegations of sexual abuse and sexual harassment. Information was in both English and Spanish. Random staff and Client interviews were conducted in the Administrative Conference Room.

The following staff accompanied the auditor on the site review:

Chris Branham, Facility Director
Robyn Baldwin, PREA Coordinator

All housing units, common areas, client program areas, administrative area, multiple laundry, dining area, kitchen, outdoor leisure area, and all other client accessible areas were toured (see CHART 1). While touring several clients and staff were questioned about their knowledge of PREA standards, procedures for reporting, services available, and their responsibilities. All staff and clients informally interviewed during the tour acknowledged receiving training and procedures for reporting sexual abuse, sexual harassment, and/or retaliation for reporting.

The facility supplied a list client names sorted by housing units, and special designations, as well as a list of facility staff names to the auditor. From these lists the auditor selected, at random, a sampling of clients and staff to be interviewed during the on-site visit. The sampling size for clients included at least three clients from each housing area. This decision was made to ensure all clients throughout the facility were receiving the same information and education related to all Genesis Recovery Kentucky Center of the PREA program instituted at this facility.

The auditor interviewed a total of eight random staff members during the course of this audit. (See CHART 2 for staff interviews.) All staff interviewed was well versed in their respective areas of responsibility regarding PREA and affirmed compliance with the applicable PREA standards. Staff interviewed was well versed in their responsibilities in reporting sexual abuse, sexual harassment, staff negligence, and retaliation for reporting. When questioned about evidence preservation, all staff responses reflected knowledge of agency policies and procedures.

There were 16 clients interviewed during the on-site visit (See CHART 3). These clients consisted of: 10 clients selected at random and 6 targeted clients. There were 3 clients that had cognitive impairments, 2 that screened at risk of victimization and 1 that self-identified as LGBKTI+. All of the clients interviewed acknowledged receiving PREA training and written materials (posters, pamphlets, and client handbooks) outlining the agencies zero tolerance policies towards sexual abuse, sexual harassment, and retaliation for reporting, as well as the procedures for reporting. All clients interviewed felt if they had to file a PREA complaint the facility would respond appropriately to their complaint and that all PREA complaints were taken very seriously by staff at this facility. The auditor selected and carefully examined 5 human resource files, and 5 staff training files (See CHART 4). The facility does not have any contract employees and has not utilized any volunteer services due to COVID-19 in the past 16 months. The personnel and training files were very well organized and contained all the necessary background check information and signed statements regarding previous sexual misconduct described in the standards. Background checks are completed by the Genesis Recovery Kentucky Center and the Kentucky Department of Corrections. The Genesis Recovery Kentucky Center also completed annual background checks on each employee, volunteer and contractor (if any). The training records were also very complete and included written documentation that staff and volunteers received the required training and understood what was being trained. The Genesis Recovery Kentucky Center utilizes a 64-slide Lesson Plan for PREA training to staff and contract employees. The Genesis Recovery Kentucky Center has an extensive PREA 39-slide PowerPoint that is used for all volunteer trainings; which are conducted annually.

The auditor also reviewed 10 client files and saw documentation of offender education, as well as documentation of the initial risk screenings, the 30-day re-screenings, and screenings upon additional information being completed as required by the standard. Rescreening are completed by Case Mangers within the first 30 days of confinement.

It is a 105-bed community confinement facility that facilitates rehabilitation services for Kentucky Department of Corrections, local jurisdictions via court order. The average length of stay is between 6-9 months. The facility consists of one building, the Detox area is for newly admitted clients and open dorm style housing. The facility’s parent agency is the Pathways, Inc. It is a private not-for-profit organization that was founded in 1967 and in 2016 opened the Genesis Recovery Kentucky Center for Men. Genesis Recovery Kentucky Center utilizes the Recovery Kentucky Model philosophy; a long-term social model of recovery which integrates a peer self-help recovery system with the 12 Step of Alcoholics Anonymous programs. The Recovery Kentucky Program emerged in response to the Governor’s Drug Summit Task Force’s assessment that recovery programs were essential if Kentucky was to address the escalating drug epidemic facing all regions of the state. The goal of the program is to have at least two centers in each congressional district. Half of the centers are for women and half for men. Residents must make the commitment to overcome their addictions.

Eligibility and Intake criteria include:

- Men who are homeless or are marginally housed with a history of addiction
- No history of sexual misconduct
- No propensity for violence as demonstrated in past behavior
- No uncontrolled mental Illness
- Be physically able to participate in the program
- Be capable of living in a group environment
• No court dates within 30 days

Genesis Recovery Kentucky Center for men serves Kentucky’s 5th Congressional District. Some employees are former clients who have successfully graduated the program. The facility is staffed with both full-time and part-time employees. Staff deviations are covered by overtime, part-time employee call-ins or Administrative staff. The facility is normally staff by two persons at all time.

As a transitional supportive housing development Genesis Recovery Kentucky Center uses a recovery program model that includes peer support, daily living skills, training, job responsibilities and challenges to practice sober living. This unique type of supporting housing and recovery program is proven to help people who face the most complex challenges to live more stable and productive lives.

Male clients are all assigned a job; which may include food operations, custodial, lawn care, watch and laundry. Many of the client rooms are sponsored by local business; they provide updated living supplies and equipment for the room. The Genesis Recovery Kentucky Center Recovery Center has forged multiple community partnerships in its efforts to achieve the facility’s mission.

During the on-site portion of the audit, the Auditor observed PREA signage in numerous locations throughout the facility; including the external PREA hotline number. The auditor observed the “PREA Audit Notices” posted in several locations including housing areas, common areas, and in the lobby of the facility. There has not been any significant expansions or modifications to the facility since its last PREA Audit in 2018.

The recovery program is composed of four basic components:

1. Safe off the Streets (SOS): In this phase the addict/alcoholic can allow his body to become alcohol and drug free. This phase allows the client to assess his condition and determine whether he wants to begin to recover from addiction.

2. Motivational Tracks I and II: Residents in this phase are asked to accomplish assigned tasks. Residents “trudge” to off-site to a local Catholic Church self-help meetings and alcohol and drug education classes twice a week.

3. Phase I: This phase of the program offers an effective solution to the problems of addiction and alcoholism. Program goals are recovery from addiction, social wellness, and economic independence.

4. Phase II/Transitional Program: At this phase, the resident may become an Assistant Staff for clients in the motivational or recovery phase of the program or may seek employment in the community while continuing to reside in the facility.

to a substantial risk of imminent threat of sexual abuse, the inmate may file a grievance through the facility’s grievance process and the grievance will be considered an emergency grievance. The initial response to the grievance must be made within 48 hours and the final determination must be made within 5 calendar days, except in circumstances of county holidays and significant events. The agency’s immediate focus must be to take action to prevent the potential sexual abuse. Corrective and protective action must be pursued promptly. The Genesis Recovery Kentucky Center PREA Policy mandates that staff must treat the information as confidential, only to be revealed to their supervisors in the chain-of-command to ensure prompt action is taken. During this audit cycle, the
